

Morning News Summary

US Stocks Gain on Strong Results

US stocks gained, as downbeat homebuilder sentiment was offset by solid earnings from Halliburton and a strong order outlook from Boeing. Halliburton rose +6.3%, while Boeing jumped +1.4%. US homebuilder sentiment fell more than expected in July to its lowest level in more than a year after a homebuyer tax credit expired. At last glance, the Nasdaq was up +1.0% while the Dow and the S&P 500 were both up +0.8%.

Weak corporate revenues weighed on stocks, with both Hasbro Inc and Delta Air Lines posting revenues that fell short of expectations. Hasbro dipped -1.1%, while Delta fell -3.5%. International Business Machines Corp was up +1.1% ahead of its earnings report due after the bell. Texas Instruments, which also reports later Monday, rose +2.0%.

BP Leads UK and European Stocks Down

The FTSE 100 closed down -0.2%, led by a fall in BP and weak US housing data. BP shed -4.7% after leaks were discovered in its capped well. The oil firm has lost over 40 percent in value since the leak started in April.

Miners rebounded after falls the previous week, against a backdrop of firmer metals prices, with Xstrata, Rio Tinto and Vedanta Resources adding between +1.1% and +1.5%. International Power was the top riser on the index, up +10.5% after the company said it had revived talks on a possible tie-up with France's GDF Suez.

European shares also fell as disappointing US housing data and news from BP offset positive mergers and acquisitions sentiment, led by International Power. The pan-European FTSEurofirst 300 index closed -0.7% lower.

Asian Stocks Decline

Asian stocks fell, on the back of a decline in investor sentiment and led by falls in financials and technology stocks. The MSCI Asia Pacific Index, excluding Japan Index, fell -1.0%. Japanese markets were closed on Monday for Marine Day. Financials were the biggest drag on the index, with Industrial Bank of Korea leading declines, down -4.5%.

Samsung Electronics sank -0.9%, while LG Electronics fell -1.2%. Commodity stocks also fell with Aluminium Corporation of China down -2.3%. Zijin Mining Group lost -3.7% after the Chinese company said investigators found a "substantial leakage" of waste water at a copper plant.

ASX Declines

The ASX 200 fell -1.5%, led by banks and financials after earnings reports from larger US peers disappointed the market last week. Healthcare stocks Healthscope and Ramsay Health Care were the main exceptions, up +10.0% and +5.4% respectively on the back of Healthscope's board acceptance of a bid lodged by private equity firms Carlyle and Texas Pacific Group.

Crude Flat, Crude Down

Crude was flat was $76.02, while gold fell -0.8% to $1,183.45,

NZ Headlines

Chinese dairy company, Bright Dairy & Food, has agreed to buy a 51% stake in Canterbury milk processor Synlait Milk for $82m. The investment will enable Synlait to complete the construction of a second milk processing plant. The land on which the existing and future plants are to be located will remain in ownership of a separate entity.

The second exploration well of a two-well programme in the highly prospective Tui oil and gas zone has come up without finding significant evidence of hydrocarbons. The Kahu-1 exploration well has since been plugged and abandoned. NZ Oil & Gas owns 12.5% of the oil field.

Singapore's Olam International has launched a full takeover bid for NZ Farming Systems Uruguay at $0.55. PGG Wrightson has entered into a lock-up agreement with Olam in respect to its 11.5% stake in NZS. The offer is subject to regulatory approval and Olam obtaining not less than a 50% shareholding in NZS.

The BNZ-Business NZ performance of services index rose 2.2 from May figures to stand at 55.7 in June. This was its eighth consecutive month of expansion and the highest June result since 2007. A PSI reading above 50 points indicates that services activity is expanding.
