

Morning News Summary

Dow Jones Breaks Eight Day Winning Streak

US stocks fell on Friday, ending the Dow Jones Industrial Average's longest streak in two months, following lower than estimated sales at Bank of America, Citigroup and General Electric. A negative consumer confidence report which saw confidence down to the lowest level in a year also weighed on the markets.

The financial sector in the S&P 500 fell -2.9% led by falls from Bank of America and Citigroup, while Home Depot slumped -4.1%, after US retail sales dropped for a second month, leading consumer companies down. General Electric slipped -2.7% after missing revenue forecasts, while losses were pared as Goldman Sachs surged +5.9% on its $550m settlement of the federal government's fraud lawsuit.

The Standard & Poor's Index declined -1.2% for the week, after having surged +7.1% between July 2 and July 13. The Dow Jones retreated -2.9% on Friday, down -1.0% for the week, breaking an eight day winning streak.

European Stocks Down On US Financials Shares

Stocks in the United Kingdom retreated, reversing earlier gains on the FTSE 100 Index, after Citigroup and Bank of America reported worse than expected sales and on a disappointing report on US consumer confidence. The FTSE 100 banking sector fell as Barclays and HSBC Holdings both slid over -2.0%. BP climbed +1.3%, but gains from the oil company were outweighed by heavy losses in financial shares. The FTSE 10 Index declined -1.0% on Friday, paring this week's gain to just +0.5%. The benchmark index has declined -11.0% since this year's high on April 15.

European stocks retreated last week as economic reports from China and the US raised concern the global economy's recovery may be faltering, and as US banks reported sales that trailed analyst estimates. Financial shares across Europe led declines with Credit Suisse, Deutsche Bank and Barclays falling over -3.0% each. The largest drop amongst industry groups was led by Rio Tinto and BHP Billiton, as they led raw materials shares to the largest industry drop on the Stoxx Europe 600. The Stoxx Europe 600 Index fell -0.8%, paring last week's 5.4% rally, the biggest gain in a year.

Asian Stocks Decline

Asian stocks fell, erasing gains for the week as Hynix Semiconductor fell -6.6%, Li & Fung declined -1.5%, and Sony lost -5.0% as the yen strengthened. Fanuc, which makes industrial robots, declined -4.9%, leading the MSCI Asia Pacific down -0.9% on Friday.

The Nikkei 225 declined -2.9% as the yen strengthened, seeing Canon down -3.2% and Nintendo retreat -2.7% as US sales of its DS consoles declined.

ASX Declines

The ASX 200 fell -0.5% led by financial and mining companies such as AXA Pacific Holdings (-1.9%), and Newcrest Mining (-2.1%).

Gold, Crude Down

Gold fell -1.3% to $1,193.00, while crude fell -1.0% to $76.01.

NZ Headlines

Cavalier upgraded FY10 tax paid profit guidance from $14.m-$15.5m range to $16.3m-$16.7m range. Once the impact of the government's 2010 Budget tax changes on the deferred tax position of the group are taken into account, net profit is likely to be between $11m to $11.4m.

Internet provider Orcon is launching a mobile service today and is scrapping fixed-term contracts. The state-owned company, which is a Vodafone reseller, hopes to sign up tens of thousands of mobile users in the next year.
