Tower (TWR) has provided estimates of the impact of the recent Canterbury floods which has lifted its annual assumption for 'large events' to the maximum annual level of NZ$14.0m versus NZ$9.7m previously. As a result, TWR has downgraded its FY21 earnings guidance but reiterated existing dividend guidance of between 5.0cps to 5.5cps. Our forecasts have not changed materially and we remain with a spot valuation of NZ$0.95.

What's changed?

- Earnings: FY21 earnings guidance was reduced to NZ$22m-NZ$24m (from NZ$25m to NZ$27)
- Dividend: We increase our FY21 dividend forecast from 4.9cps to 5.2cps

Canterbury flood impact lowers earnings guidance

TWR has advised it has received 164 claims and estimates the cost to be NZ$2.8m to NZ$3.0m pre-tax. As a result, TWR has lifted its large event assumption to the maximum level of NZ$14m, being the point that aggregate reinsurance for large events applies (excl NZ earthquakes). TWR has lowered its FY21 guidance from NZ$25m–NZ$27m (with an NZ$9.7m large event assumption) to NZ$22m–NZ$24m with the NZ$14m large event assumption. The existing FY21 dividend guidance of between 5.0cps and 5.5cps has been retained.

Only minor changes to our FY21 forecasts

Our earnings have dropped very slightly as we have increased our large event forecast from NZ$13.8m to NZ$14.0m. Given our higher than previous guidance estimate for large events, our FY21 earnings forecast of NZ$21.6 is in line with the low end of the new guidance range. We have lifted our FY21 dividend forecast from 4.9cps to 5.2cps. There is no change to our NZ$0.95 spot valuation.

Underlying positive growth trends remain in place

While the recent 1H21 result was impacted by the short-term volatility of an insurance business, key positive trends continued with strong growth in gross written premiums and solid improvement in management expense ratios as it leverages its new digital platform. TWR also continues to successfully integrate acquisitions. Evidence over the next 12 months that its very attractive dividend yield of ~7% is sustainable and further delivery of key growth trends will continue to drive the improved investor sentiment seen over the last six months. TWR continues to trade at a substantial discount to its key listed peers as detailed in Figure 3.
